

Multi Function Parklands (MFP)

A week in the life of our south-east corner of the Parklands sees many and varied activities – fishing, flying, dog obedience, camping and bird watching – not to mention the jogging, cycling and footie, as well as the wide range of Adelaidians soaking up the wonderful open spaces that makes our City unique

What? Fishing you ask? We know politicians fish but this is no “pollies” in the park but a real competition. The stakes are high at the State Championships for the Australian Anglers Association!

Then we have the high-flyers – they meet every weekend, they are dedicated, and are like-minded high achievers that dominate the skies above our south-eastern parklands.

As well we have the obedient dogs performing their tricks, some not so eager to arise on the first day of daylight saving.

And finally, overlooking the scene is two of our wonderful native birdlife – the kookaburras perched overhead

Isn't it great to see our Parklands being freely used by all!
